McBride and Goodrich presented a clever skit, Topack, and Goodrich presented a clever skit, and Goodrich presented a cle whiter than snow.

That deathlike stillness which one always

With a heart beating like the expectant lover

ascent of the stairs to his wife's room his courage became greater. His voice became louder and he stopped long enough to put on the shoes which he had taken off at the foot of the stairs so that he would not injure the carpet. Still the welcome tones of his "pet" had not rung out in words of reproach and he began to think that he was too good for his business, that he ought to go on the stage. "Perform! Election of Officers.

At the regular annual meeting of the board of trustees of Odd Fellows' Hall, 7th street northwest, held last night, the following officers were unanimously re-elected: President, Richard B. Nixon; vice president, James W. Colley; secretary, John H. Seiffert; treasurer, Andrew Jackson.

Extensive Improvements Made. Messrs. Kneessi Sons of 425 7th street northwest, dealers in harness and leather goods, have just completed extensive improvements in their establishment, made necessary by their in-creased trade, and also by the fact that they have doubled their former large stock. A large and handsome show window has been put in, the first floor of the store lowered and other facilities added to accommodate the rapily in-creasing business of the firm.

Albaugh's.—A very large and a very good-looking audience was that at Albaugh's last night to see Mr. Roland Reed present his new comedy, "Innocent as a Lamb," for the first They Object to Competition From the Reform ool and the Industrial Home School. The florists of the District, as represented by the Washington Florists' Club, took action at a time to a Washington audience. The play, by Mr. Craven and Mr. McDonough, is in four meeting held last week in relation to what they acts, and narrates the trials and tribulations of claim is a great wrong committed against them Mr. Tobias Pilkington (Mr. Reed), lawyer of New York, who tells his wife he is going to and also by the authorities in charge of the and also by the authorities in charge of the Boston, when in reality he is going to Pater-son, N.J. On the complications arising from this the piav is built, and while it is bright in some of its dialogue, and funny in business of the men who are taxed to support some of its situations, there are several places in it where a critical audience does not laugh with spontaneity. All audiences, however, are not critical and "Innocent as a Lamb" has been as the theatric vernacular goes a "phenomenal success." Mr. Reed, of course leads, and he is very agreeably assisted by Mr. W. C. Andrews,

The schools were at little, if any, expense, and they were thereby enabled to sell at prices which could not be touched by the growers and retailers. While the florists believed that the boys should be taught useful trades and occupations, they were confident that it was practically impossible to teach them floriculture with the limited means at the command of either institution. They also took the position that the ceeded in doing. Albaugh's has scarcely held a finer audience this season than that of last whether the people who were in the theater were to see "The Still Alarm" or to see the mascot of the play, "Little Tuesday," the fiveyear old little girl who has everything her own way off the stage and on. Miss Lilla Vane was well liked as Agnes Rodman, the sweetheart of was a large audience in attendance at the Sunday school rooms comprising all ages, but the children were in a large majority. An organization was effected by the election of Miss Maggie A. Laing as president, Mr. George E. Sullivan as vice president, Miss Bessie H. Hobson as treasurer and Mr. Charles L. Mendel as sec retary.

Several appropriate and spirited songs were sung, with Miss Louise Kennon presiding at the organ.
After a short address by Mr. Irwin B. Linton, who explained and recommended the "triple pledge," viz: against the use of intoxicating liquors, tobacco and profanity, pledge cards were distributed, with the request that they be signed if at all only after a thoughtful consideration of the obligation to be assumed. In all thirty pledges were signed and handed in. The meeting closed with prayer for the success of the effort. The first Monday in April another meeting will be held in the Sunday school rooms, corner of New York avenue and North Capitol street.

A Suit for Damages.

Francis C. Adams has filed a suit, through Mr. C. Maurice Smith, against the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company to recover $10,000 damages by reason of being thrown off the front platform of a cable car at Pennsylvania avenue and 7th street on January 13 last, striking a car coming in an opposite direction, causing a fracture of his skull, injuries to back. side, &c. The plaintiff alleges that on that day he took passage on the car between 12th and 13th streets and was on the front platform and there being no guards on the platform by the sudden stoppage of the car he was thrown off.

The Phonograph Injunction. In the case of the Columbia Phonograph Company against the North American Phono graph Company and George E. Tewksbury and Leonard Gartield Spencer, in which a temporary restraining order prohibiting the defendants from making records of the music of the United States Marine Band was granted March 9, Judge Cox, in chambers, this morning granted an injunction against the de-fendants prohibiting them from making in the District of Columbia or the states of Maryland and Delaware musical phonograph records or other phonograph records, or otherwise, directly or indirectly, dealing in any machines, instruments, contrivances or appliances of any kind or description covered by the letters patent to Thomas A. Edison relating to the phonograph. In the argument of the case it was contended that Messrs. Tewksbury and Spencer were not agents of the North American Phonograph Company, but were acting as individuals. The court heid that the question of agency was im-material, inasmuch as the Columbia Phono-graph Company held for the territory in ques-tion exclusive rights in the phonograph and appliances therefor.

Record of Deaths.

During the twenty-four hours ending at noon today burial permits were issued from the health office for the following: White-Rebecca S. Quinter, 78 years; Caroline Seabury, 65 years; Mary A. Meads, 70 years; Ann Sweeney, 53 years; Henry Olive, 35 years; Norton C. Bush, 56 years.

To Connect the Two Gas Companies. The attention of the Commissioners was re ently called to a request from the Georgetown Gas Light Company to lay a 6-inch pipe from its works on 29th street south along 29th to the intersection of K street with Rock creek and connect it with the sunken pipe of the Washington Gas Light Company for the purpose of obtaining such amount of gas as may be re-quired for use in Georgetown in excess of pro-

Capt. Lusk, in passing upon the papers, says, as a question of public policy, he believes that it would be advantageous to the District that suitable connection should exist between the distributing systems of the two gas lighting companies, in order that in case of accident to the works of one the other company would be able temporarily to make up for the deficiency in gas. If upon examination the bridge is found strong enough to bear the additional strain a permit will be given and the main laid under the direction of the surface division.

Speaking of the matter to a Star reporter today, Mr. C. F. Hale stated that the florists felt that the action of the authorities worked most injuriously against them and that it was most unfair. Competition in their business was yearly growing keener, prices were falling and consequently their profits were becoming smaller. tion of Graceland cemetery is a contract on the part of the United States that the association may exercise the powers and privileges in class 5 of the general incorpora-tion law until revoked or repealed by Congress, and while it is perfectly competent for that body to impair the contract or to con-trol and restrict the association in the use of its land, I doubt the power of the Commissioners to do so without express authority from Congress.
"But without going more at length into this case, which is an interesting one, I think the question has been settled, so far as any remedy under the police power is concerned, by the general term of the Supreme Court of this District Sullivan's case (Wash. Law Rep., 20, page 713). In that case the court, it would seem, limited the police regulations mentioned in section 2 of the joint resolution of February 2. 1892, to regulations in addition to those already made in accordance with the act of January 26, 1887. By refrence to the act of 1887 it will be seen the ommissioners were empowered to make, modify and enforce usual and reasonable police regulations on ten different subjects. I do not quote the provisions of the act of 1887 because none of the regulations which it authorized relate to burial grounds. In disposing of the question in Sullivan's case, which was whether the Commissioners had the power under section 2 of the joint resolution to make a police regulation, in the interest of quiet and good order, imposing a penalty for selling liquor without a license, the court held this language: "In the construction of this grant of power the first question is whether it is affected by reference to the act of January 26, 1887. We think, in the first piace, that the words in addi-tion to those already made under that act thing, in this life is already made under that act necessarily mean, "those already made in accordance with, &c., so that reference is actually made to the provisions of the act itself." It appears, therefore, that the police regulations the Commissioners are authorized to make by section 2 of the joint resolution of February 2, 1892, are confined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to such as are in amplification of those fined to the former on Dumbarton avenue. THE FIRST CANAL ARRIVALS. The first canal arrivals of the season were reported yesterday afternoon. They were the 44 barges Consolidation No. 13 and J. H. Mertins with 114 tons of coal each. They left Cumberland on the 15th instant and traveled both by night and day. The crews and mules were pretty well tired out. They report bad weather at times along the line, but state that the canal is in excellent condition. After the long period of inactivity they awakened a great deal of interest at the locks, towns and other points on the road down. Quite a crowd collected at places along the Georgetown level, and at times cheered the peculiar yet familiar teams as they glided by. Today the barges are being discharged. There was a small crowd of sports and apparently not much small crowd of sports and apparently not much interest centered in the fight. It was kind of a trial to see which dog should be pitted against a Philadelphia canine which it is proposed to challenge. Both bulls were brindles and weighed in at thirty-two pounds. The washing and tasting formalites were dispensed with, because by the President, will in all probability occupy the old court room situated on the third floor of the southwestern wing of the city hall, that from the start. The Washington dog fought low and reserved his energy till the Georgetown bull began to pout and weary of tugging his enemy around the ring. Then Tag turned himself loose and sailed in. Raw mea rolling and terring the Georgetown dog refused o scratch and Tag was borne off as victor.

PROUD OF BATEMAN'S SUCCESS. Georgetown's champion pugilist, Jos. Bateman, is resting on his laurels. After his fight with Lynch he was given quite an ovation by the boys of the C. A. C .- the local sports, however, having been paying their attentions to Joe ever since. A number of callers have stopped at his pretty home on P street and McCay's has been thronged with Georgetown people who came to make merry, shake hands with and congratulate Joe. The young gentleman takes it all modestly and again and again refuses "to have something." He has in view now one of the greatest scraps of his career. A GAY PARTY.

The Oak Spray Pleasure Club left last evening for an outing at English Harbor. It was a gay company that sailed out on the yacht Lone Star. Those composing the party were Capt. Hanneke, "Senator" Quackenbush. Frank Ash, Capt. Westbrooke, Abe Warwick and Henry Weaver. They will spend a large part of the time fishing in the neighborhood of Lloyd's Landing. The company will return A FARMER'S PLUCK.

The team of Mr. Hamilton, a Virginia farmer, became freightened yesterday afternoon by one of the M street cable cars and ran away. Mr. Hamilton held to the reins and kept the alarmed horses in a straight path. He did not attempt to turn and cross the bridge, but headed them along the Canal road. After a long run the animals capitulated and stood

A COCK FIGHT IN PROSPECT. There was some talk last night in the neighborhood of the market of getting up a main between Georgetown and Suitland birds. There is a sport here who is anxious to match his Field Virginia strain against some specimens of the Maryland red shawineck. It is likely that a match will be made. A good deal of interest s felt in the result.

THEY WANT BAILBOADS. Host Scholdt of the West Washington Hotel speaks the sentiments of Georgetown hotel keepers when he says: "We want railroads. Georgetown will never be more than an isolated town without them. Engine smoke drives away provincialism. With the Baltimore and Ohio, the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Norfolk and Western here the business hotels of the District would be in Georgetown.

WANTS THE PRESIDENT TO GO A-FISHING. Joe Pennyfield, the fisherman with whom President Cleveland spent several days at the Great Falls during his last administration, is in town for the purpose of once again inviting him to fish for bass at the falls. > AFTER THE GRIP. "Last winter I had the Grip. After I began to get better, being weak and run down and without appetite, con-cluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I can say with many others my appetite is good and my general health is creatly improved. I also received Hood's Rainy Day Puzzle

"Last spring I was very much run down, being troubled with rheuma-tism and indigestion and my blood being very poor. I took HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and I received more benefit from it than from all other remedies. I think Hood's Sersa-parilla is a fine blood purifier." M. A. C. NELSON, Huntley Hill, Mont.
